TAG HEUER LAUNCHES

THREE NEW MONACO SKELETON DIAL PIECES

FOR THIS YEAR'S GRAND PRIX
IN THE PRINCIPALITY

To mark the prestigious 2023 Monaco Grand Prix, TAG Heuer adds a new chapter to its personal Monaco history with three avant-garde, innovative and colorful new TAG Heuer Monaco chronograph watches.

La Chaux-de-Fonds, Switzerland – 26 May 2023:

Swiss luxury watchmaker TAG Heuer is launching the latest addition to its iconic Monaco collection with new and colorful TAG Heuer Monaco chronograph timepieces. These new watches presented for the 80th Monaco Grand Prix, a partnership that is close to TAG Heuer's heart, mark the brand's first use of a skeleton dial within its Monaco collection. This extension consists of three new timepieces, each with its unique inspiration.

Introduced in 1969, the TAG Heuer Monaco quickly became one of the most iconic watches in history. Its bold, square case design and innovative chronograph functions were unlike anything else on the market then, and quickly became synonymous with the brand, gaining a following among racing enthusiasts and watch lovers alike.

Since its creation, the watch has appeared on the wrists of many racing icons such as Joe Siffert, Jochen Rindt, and a true friend of the brand, Steve McQueen, who famously wore a TAG Heuer Monaco in the 1971 film "Le Mans", and whose watch became synonymous with his style.

A Racing Heritage

The TAG Heuer Monaco captured the spirit of the high-speed world of motorsports. The Monaco project began when Jack Heuer set out to create a watch that would be visually striking and technologically advanced. The prototype was unveiled in 1969 and featured a square-shaped case, blue dial, and bold chronograph functions. It was paired with a Calibre 11, the first automatic chronograph movement to be offered to the public, and quickly became a favorite of the industry.

From its introduction, the TAG Heuer Monaco would reflect the cutting edge of contemporary design. From the midnight blue and bright white of the late 1960s to the contrasting grey tones used in the early 1970s, the Heuer Monaco reflected popular culture while challenging design limits. It was only natural then, that in the late 1970s, the TAG Heuer Monaco Chronograph would unveil an entirely different look, including the matte black case and dial of the legendary "Dark Lord".

The TAG Heuer Monaco's status was cemented in 1971, when Steve McQueen wore the watch in the movie "Le Mans." McQueen's character, Michael Delaney, showcased the timepiece throughout the film, and the exposure helped to solidify the watch's status as a cultural icon.

The timepiece has then undergone several further design changes and technological advancements. In 1998, the TAG Heuer Monaco was reissued as part of the brand's Vintage series, featuring a faithful reproduction of the original design – and it was again updated in 2003 with the Calibre 360 movement, capable of measuring time with accuracy up to 1/100th of a second.

Today, the TAG Heuer Monaco remains one of the brand's most iconic and recognizable models. It has been released in various limited-edition versions, paying tribute to the watch's history and connection to motorsports and becoming a timeless and beloved timepiece. With the brand's ambition to always push innovation and design to new limits, the TAG Heuer Monaco skeleton dial watch is now the perfect next step and testament to such an avant-garde mentality.

The TAG Heuer Monaco Unveils its Deepest Secrets

Over 50 years after the birth of the Heuer Monaco, TAG Heuer is releasing three new models, taking a further step towards a unique Monaco design by incorporating a skeleton dial. This marks the first time that the collection unveils the mechanism of the watch.

The modern skeleton watch comes in three different dials, "Original Blue", "Racing Red", and "Turquoise", all uncovering a soon-to-be iconic open work. These timepieces were designed to offer an avant-garde interpretation of the racing universe, featuring a vibrant contemporary style intended to resonate with collectors and the youth alike.

The Colours of Racing

Each TAG Heuer Monaco skeleton dial piece has a unique history. The “Original Blue” draws inspiration from the first-ever TAG Heuer Monaco blue dial. The blue and red colours are featured on the dial, the blue on the column wheel and the oscillating mass engravings – an overall design paying homage to the TAG Heuer Monaco 1969 and its original success.

The “Racing Red” nods to the racing DNA of the TAG Heuer Monaco, with the colour red often referencing the racing sparks made on the tracks. The black and silver colour touches are especially noticeable on the dial, along with the red column wheel and red engravings being visible on the oscillating mass, which completes the racing-inspired feel.

The “Turquoise” piece is the third watch to round-off the collection, offering a fresh and avant-garde take on TAG Heuer’s Monaco design. The engaging turquoise, a little nod to Monaco’s coastline and the red color can be seen specifically on the dial, with the turquoise also being sported on the column wheel and on the engravings of the oscillating mass – which makes this watch definitely stand out from other iconic timepieces.

The in-house Heuer 02 movement that powers all three timepieces creates a contrast in harmony with the movement of the TAG Heuer Monaco’s original versions in the 1970s. This movement employs a conventional column wheel to activate the chronograph and boasts an 80-hour power reserve, one of the biggest for a chronograph in the watch industry. Moreover, the exquisite finishing of the Heuer 02 is accentuated by an engraved oscillating mass showcased through the sapphire case back.

The new Monaco skeletons are endowed with a technical and rugged appearance thanks to their sandblasted titanium grade 2 case. Being a high-performance material, titanium offers a remarkable blend of strength and lightweight properties while also being corrosion resistant and has become a signature element of the brand.

The Super-LumiNova® treatment on the carved indexes and hands of the watch adds an edgy and futuristic touch to this collection additions. The date window with the same luminous treatment is also a first for the TAG Heuer Monaco, making it easy to read in low-light conditions. The hands are also treated with luminescent elements, which ensures optimum legibility in any conditions, day or night - a detail Jack Heuer always liked to pay attention to.

The newly released TAG Heuer Monaco skeleton dial watches have been meticulously crafted to embody technical excellence with thorough attention to detail. Amongst its notable features is also the innovative bi-material strap, thoughtfully designed with a combination of rubber and leather for optimal comfort and style. These straps come in black or blue respectively, adding to the watches' overall racing appeal.

The three new TAG Heuer Monaco chronograph pieces are an exciting addition to this iconic collection. They offer a fresh take on the emblematic design with a modern and avant-garde twist. The company's focus on disruptive legacy, combined with its use of cutting-edge technology, has resulted in simple and complex timepieces, capturing one's imagination and giving the promise of a statement.

CELEBRATING THE DEFINITIVE GRAND TOURER: 20 YEARS OF THE CONTINENTAL GT

To celebrate 20 years of the Continental GT, Bentley Motors is hosting a four-month programme of unique models, drives and events that kicks-off today at the Shanghai Auto Show with the debut of a one-of-one Continental GT S. This unique car showcases several bespoke Mulliner features, including commemorative badging, inlays and design motifs marking 20 years of the car that has defined the modern era of Bentley Motors.

Bentley starts celebration of the Continental GT's 20th birthday.

Anniversary marked at Shanghai Auto Show with unveiling of one-of-one commemorative Continental GT S, with unique features.

Birthday festivities continue into the summer, with Heritage Collection driving opportunities and a global relay of an anniversary baton.

20 years of W12 power to be celebrated at Goodwood Festival of Speed.

Celebrations to culminate in a unique GT Speed for Monterey Car Week.

First-generation Continental GT launched in 2003, as first all-new Bentley of the VW Group, creating a new market sector.

Constant evolution through three generations to present day.

Recent awards include Robb Report Car of the Year 2022 and 2023 and Auto Motor und Sport Best Luxury Import 2022 and 2023.

Bentley releases summary film showing evolution of the Continental GT.

The exterior of the special GT S for Shanghai is the strikingly sinister Magnetic dark grey metallic, complemented by black chrome and black 22" 10-spoke sports wheels but with a splash of colour provided by red brake calipers. The black-and-red theme is carried into the interior, with duo-tone finish in Beluga and Hotspur leather with Piano Black.

alluring

A bespoke interior features a unique Mulliner colour way, dual-finish fascias and waistrails and bespoke detailing to centre console and treadplates.

The upper fascia veneer is in Granite Stone, giving a unique tactile finish, while the lower veneer is in Grand Black and features a laser-etched overlay celebrating the 20 year anniversary of the Continental GT. A red pinstripe separates the two finishes, stretching across the fascia from door to door and passing across the upper vanes of the bullseye air vents.

The treadplates proudly display two silhouettes, one of the 1st generation Continental GT and second of the 3rd generation, representing the 20 years of the modern GT. The same design can be found on the centre console, whilst the LED welcome lamp in the door has a unique design celebrating the anniversary of the iconic grand tourer.

Celebrating 20 years of the quintessential grand tourer

Launched in 2003 as the first all-new Bentley of the modern era, the first with all-wheel drive and the first to feature the innovative W12 engine, the Continental GT helped to propel Bentley to its current status as the most sought-after luxury car brand in the world.

At the time of its launch in 2003, the Continental GT offered a unique combination of stunning design, supercar performance and unrivalled craftsmanship. It was hailed as the fastest genuine four seat coupé in the world with a top speed in excess of 190 mph (300 km/h), and a 0-60mph time of 4.7 seconds (0-100 km/h in 4.8 seconds). With no comparable rivals at its price point, the Continental GT swiftly became a global sensation, defining a new market sector.

alluring

Now in its third generation, the Continental GT and its stablemate the Continental GTC continue to garner awards and accolades. In 2022 the Continental GT Speed won the respected Robb Report Car of the Year award; remarkably, the Continental GT V8 S succeeds it as Car of the Year winner for 2023. The Continental GT also achieved back-to-back wins at the Auto Motor und Sport awards in February 2023, winning the luxury class import category for the second year in a row in a poll of more than 101,000 readers.

Continental Drive Hubs

Two drive hubs will celebrate 20 years of the Continental GT, one at Bentley's headquarters in Crewe and the other in Geneva, Switzerland. First- and second-generation Continental GT models from the Bentley Heritage Collection will be available to drive alongside the latest Continental GT family, vividly bringing to life 20 years of constant design and engineering evolution.

Around the world in 20 reviews

A Bentley 'baton', designed and created in house, will begin its global journey in May, travelling in a variety of Continental GT models across Europe, the Middle East, China, Asia Pacific and the US before returning to Crewe. At journey's end back in Crewe, the baton, now containing 20 mementoes of the tour, will become a time capsule as a permanent reminder of a unique journey.

A Double Anniversary

The Continental GT's birthday also marks 20 years of Bentley's mighty 6.0-litre twin-turbo W12 engine, that has physically and metaphorically powered Bentley to success over two decades. With the end of production of the engine now scheduled for April 2024, only 12 months of W12 assembly remains before this iconic powertrain makes way for Bentley's electric future.

This milestone will be celebrated at the Goodwood Festival of Speed (13-16 July), where Bentley will be celebrating the W12 with a moving showcase of W12-powered cars from the last 20 years, up to and including the new Bentley Batur by Mulliner.

Homage to the Original at Monterey Car Week

The first Continental GT to leave the production line at Crewe in 2003, VIN number 20001, was finished in Cypress Green with an interior in Saddle hide and Burr Walnut. From that day to this, it has remained in the company's possession as a significant milestone in the Heritage Collection's garage.

At this year's Monterey Car Week (August 11-18) Bentley will reveal a final one-of-one Continental GT – inspired by VIN 20001 – to close the birthday celebrations.

About Bentley Motors

Bentley Motors is the most sought-after luxury car brand in the world. The company's headquarters in Crewe is home to all of its operations including design, R&D, engineering, and production of the company's five model lines, Continental GT, Continental GT Convertible, Flying Spur, Bentayga and Bentayga EWB. The combination of fine craftsmanship, using skills that have been handed down through generations, alongside engineering expertise and cutting-edge technology is unique to UK luxury car brands such as Bentley. It is also an example of high-value British manufacturing at its best. Bentley employs around 4,000 people at Crewe.

"Her ability to shine in any genre of photoshoot is astounding, whether it's editorial, swimsuit, lingerie, casual, fashionista, you name it, Jala Sue will rock that look like no other supermodel."

#HustleBootyTempTats supermodel Jala Sue is the cover model for this edition of Alluring Magazine, as the World's Most Beautiful Athlete continues her climb up the ladder to the very top of the modeling world. "We wanted to showcase a variety of Jala Sue's looks," noted world famous fashion photographer Elm Diaz, with whom Jala Sue collaborated for this exclusive pictorial. "Her ability to shine in any genre of photoshoot is astounding, whether it's editorial, swimsuit, lingerie, casual, fashionista, you name it, Jala Sue will rock that look like no other supermodel. She's truly remarkable!"

The impossibly fit mom of four arrived at the $20,000,000 USD estate in Bel Air, California that was rented out for this exclusive cover photoshoot by #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel founder and Executive Producer Paul Heyman, best known as the marketing genius who disrupted the entire sports entertainment industry with his "Extreme" concepts, and is the current on-camera and behind-the-scenes "Special Counsel" and "Wiseman" to WWE's Undisputed Heavyweight Champion and box office phenomenon "The Tribal Chief" Roman Reigns. Never one to quietly go about his business, Heyman has taken on the major players in the modeling world with his #HustleBootyTempTats concept, and the results are nothing short of amazing. In any examination of analytics or metrics, the #HustleBootyTempTats brand dominates the supermodel charts.

"It's all about seizing the moment," Heyman himself told Alluring. "When the opportunity presents itself, there's no time to waste. You either strike, or someone else is going to make the big move instead of you!"

Heyman's "big move" took place when the entire supermodel world was shaken to its very core when both Victoria's Secret and the annual Sports Illustrated Swimsuit issue went "politically correct" and "all-inclusive." In a recent interview, award-winning documentarian Ary Dalton, who has worked with Heyman for over a decade, explained, "Sports Illustrated caved into the cancel culture's demand that even a swimsuit magazine featuring the world's most beautiful women must now go all-inclusive. And, at the very same time, the world's biggest intimate apparel brand, Victoria's Secret started making the moves that led to them abandoning their most famous asset, their exclusive roster of the sexiest supermodels in the world who were so above the competition, they were bigger than supermodels, they were called Angels!"

Heyman, according to Dalton, saw it all coming.

"Paul saw the earthquake happening under the feet of the industry," Dalton stated. "He didn't listen to the critics. He listened to the audience."

So Heyman started renting out multi-million dollar estates and flying in a variety of photographers with diverse visions to work with a genre-busting roster of sensational beauties. The #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel roster expanded to include international fashionistas (Laken Romine and Ines Trocchia); swimsuit and bikini models (Playmate of the Year Kari Nautique, UK pinup sensation Delia Rose and "The Budapest Beauty" Borbala Kreutz); world class fitness models (Whitney Johns and Ali Lee); YouTube provocateurs (Nienna Jade and Miss Ali Drew); headline-grabbing bombshells (Daniella Chavez and Gloria Vitalina); and the hottest new influencers for the summer of 2023 (Sadie Nelson).

The #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel concept is a tongue-in-cheek "anti-influencer" influencer brand, akin to Gwyneth Paltrow's "Goop," and it's turned the modeling world upside down.

"It's a ridiculous name, isn't it?" Heyman laughed. "But it flows. And it's a conversation piece. It's not there for a deep dive into the significance of the name. Who is Victoria? What is her secret? The swimsuit edition (of Sports Illustrated) illustrates exactly which genre of sports? About what in Paul Marciano's empire am I supposed to Guess? If you're contemplating the answer to these questions, you've totally lost the plot!"

Leading the way for the #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel brand is paddleboarding champion Jala Sue. A successful model in her early 20s, the breathtaking beauty was building quite the resume when she abruptly went back home to Northern Michigan to raise a family. Her return to the modeling world happened when she was approached by Heyman to be the face (and body) of the #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel brand, and the industry has never been the same since.

"My life, career and outlook on the future of the modeling industry was forever changed for the better a few years ago when I met Paul Heyman in NY for pizza at the quaintest mom and pop Italian restaurant," Jala Sue stated. "His character and perseverance to help others become the best version of themselves and succeed is unmatched. To be a (#HustleBootyTempTats supermodel and) #PaulHeymanGirl is to know you will be treated with the utmost respect and professionalism in an industry that can be quite the opposite."

"I'm flattered, indeed humbled by Jala Sue's words," Heyman told Alluring. "But I assure you, Jala Sue has earned not only my respect, but the respect of everyone she's ever come into contact with. She's an inspiration to everyone who wants to pursue their dreams, on their terms, in a manner that one's children can look back on and be quite proud of. It's an honor to know her, work with her, and to call her my friend."

And it's our honor for us to feature #HustleBootyTempTats supermodel Jala Sue, the World's Most Beautiful Athlete and a spectacular mom of four, on the cover of this edition of Alluring Magazine!
